

Workplace Safety FREE Information Event –

BUILDING SAFETY PARTNERSHIPS for Small to Medium Size Business

Location: Kentville Fire Hall, 463 Main Street, Kentville

Date and Time: Thursday, September 14, 2017 from 9 -11 am

RSVP: kbetts@qualityconcrete.ca

What do you need to know about workplace safety and your responsibilities?

Employers must manage many aspects of their business. Managing occupational health and safety is just as important as managing finances when it comes to the bottom line. Health and safety is important to everyone. It's not only the law – it's the right thing to do. And it makes good business sense.

- Learn about your responsibilities as an employee and employer
- Participants will be able to ask questions and discuss issues affecting them
- Panel of Worker Compensation, Department of Labour and Safety Professional
- Get started! Participants will receive a FREE Small Business Safety Toolkit that helps put together a program to look after the health and safety of each person in the workplace

Host – Canadian Society of Safety Engineering Western Nova Scotia Chapter

CSSE shapes the safety profession in Canada by working with its members and partners. CSSE members work in many different industries, but share one common goal: Ensuring our colleagues make it home safe at the end of the workday.
